Blueprints for the Future

Twenty-five years after the first vision for a new Pioneer "cabin" was conceived, the dream is being realized. On the draftsman's board a blueprint has been drawn, and now we can see this dream growing before our eyes in the form of concrete and steel.

Another dream and set of blueprints has lived on even longer. Since 1964, when University High was founded, the method of giving U-High students "an education which will fit them to live more effectively and happily in a democratic society" has remained basically the same. Because of its role in determining the caliber of tomorrow's citizens, University High School itself is a Blueprint for the Future.

Lab School Needs

Outlining tomorrow's class presentation, meeting with student teachers, grading an infinite stack of papers... Has anyone ever seen a U-High teacher not busy? Giving extra help to students, reading the most recent philosophy of education, or encouraging a nervous teacher-to-be, our teachers show their poise and graciousness as well as their excellent training. Building better citizens, helping us learn, and teaching others to teach are their purposes. It's a big order; they fulfill it.

Curriculum

Mr. Carroll considers Jeff Neal's question during a conference.

Students experiment with semimicro technique in chemistry lab.

Three Advanced Math, Science Courses Added

In contributing to the national attempt to supply the demand for trained mathematicians and scientists, U-High's math and science departments have been expanding to offer more and better courses to interested and capable students.

For the first time, the mathematics department offered calculus, making it possible to take five years of math.

Continuing to experiment with different methods of teaching modern biology, Mr. Moore and Mr. Carlock kept materials up to date by periodic revisions of the text.

Mr. Cook, new to the U-High faculty this year, taught a college level general course in Chemistry. This advanced class had been offered in the summer schedule of previous years but never before in the regular term. In lab work students learned more about the use of the semimicro technique.

Advanced physics was also added to U-High curriculum. Delving more deeply into the sciences, this is an extension and expansion of that studied in first year physics.

Sue Beckman checks her respiration and heart beat on kymograph in biology room.

Mr. Carlock explains pH meter, which tests acidity and alkalinity, to Jim Taylor.

U-High Invaded University Language Classes

Jean Vandervoort exuberantly explains publications' finance problems in journalism.

Ira Langston as Macbeth faces Witches Jim Collie, Rich Cicciu and Ron Wall.

Witches, agile fencers, and young lovers invaded the English IV classes. This year, as in previous years, senior English students were required to dramatize Shakespearean scenes. These students were frequently seen mumbling oft-quoted lines of the plays as they passed through the halls.

Mr. Murley replaced Dr. Heisler who was on leave second semester. Miss Hiler, who has taught English at U-High for twelve years, is retiring.

Three teachers were added to the foreign language staff. Mr. Kennedy implanted Latin and French phrases into studious minds. Mrs. D'Abbracci also taught French, and Mr. Zelson had Spanish classes.

U-High students had an opportunity to study second year Russian and third year French and German. Those participating in this program met with college classes.

A German class labors relentlessly in the language lab.

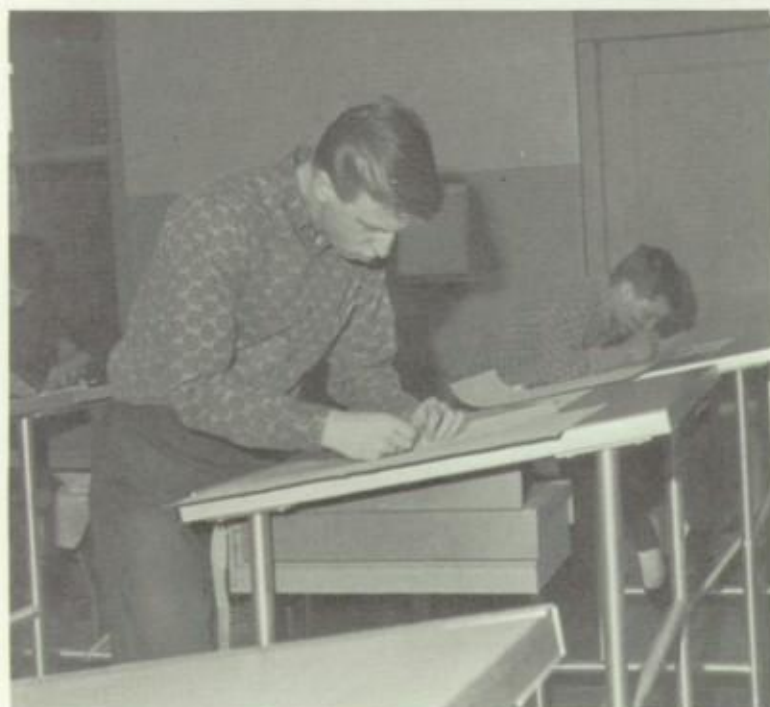

'Curve those fingers,' urges student teacher in typing class.

Ind. Arts, Business Boasted Wide Curriculum

Jill Hurless takes shorthand notes.

Jerry Lott labors over mechanical drawing.

As students of U-High we are fortunate to have a broad curriculum. Among the many subjects is a broad selection in the industrial arts and business departments.

Clacking on a typewriter, scribbling rapid shorthand notes, or studying the most effective manner of salesmanship, students receive excellent training in commerce.

Metalworking, woodworking, mechanical drawing, and graphic arts are among the electives in the field of industrial arts. Courses in shop, electricity and driver training are also available. U-High is fortunate to have college instructors in charge of these classes. Mr. O'Leary and Mr. Talkington joined our staff of teachers

In the business department, Miss Risen was added. Mrs. Benjamin was on leave second semester.

One of Mrs. Bradford's home ec classes learns thrift and convenience in sewing.

Home Ec., Ag Offered Practical Experience

Emily Evans tries her hand at domestic arts.

Ag students get lowdown on an ear of corn.

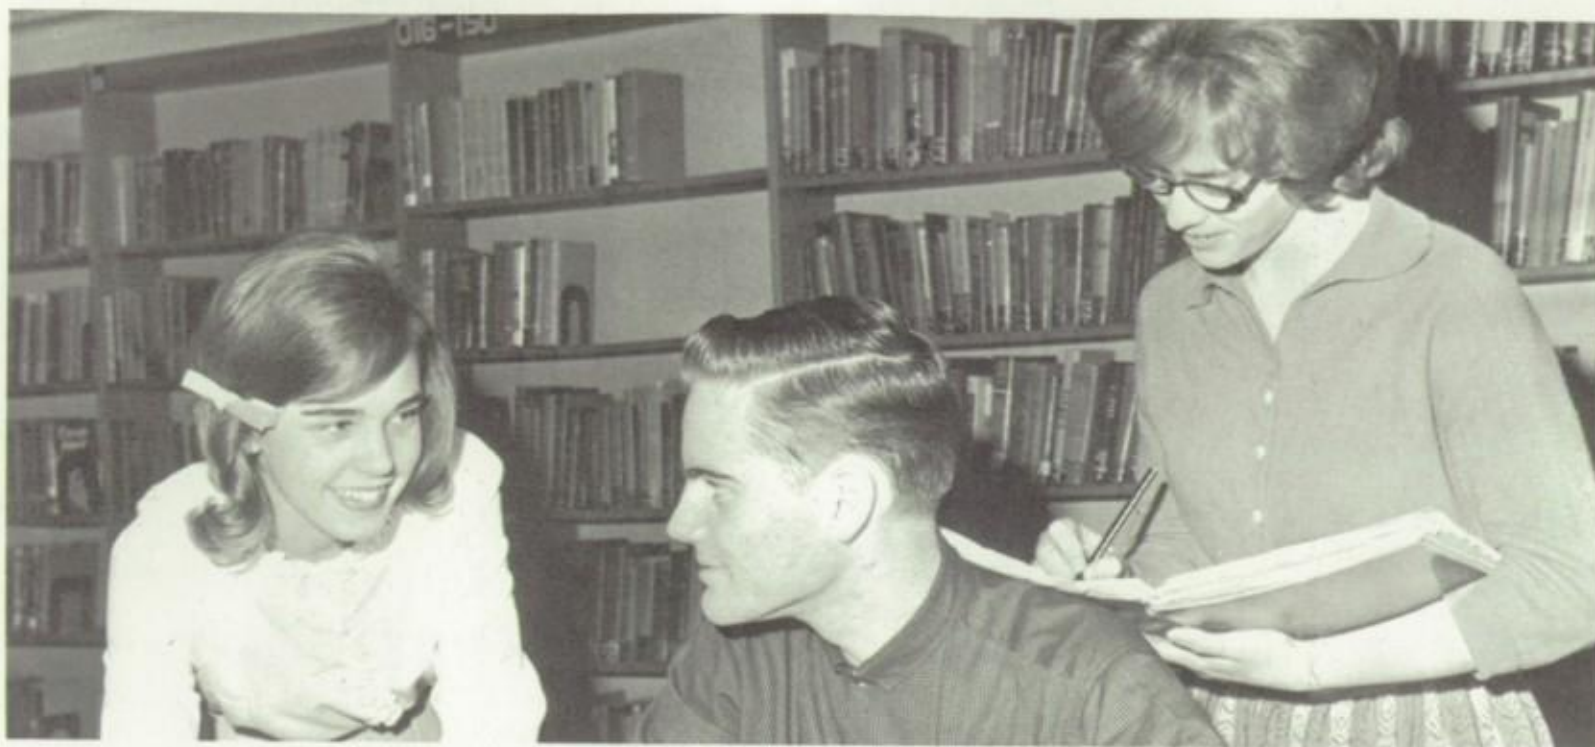

Rumbling tummies and watering mouths resulted from the delicious aromas floating from the home economics kitchen throughout the past year. Some of these ambrosial delicacies were served at a mother and daughter banquet.

Among other projects of the department were the Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow contest which was won by Dee Bunting, and a cherry pie baking competition which sent Lavetta Meyer to the regional contest where she was awarded third place.

Sewing wasn't neglected in the home ec. classes. Girls learned delight in self-satisfaction of wearing clothes they had made themselves as well as the frustration of having to rip out darts and seams.

Courses in farm crops and farm management were offered at U-High this year in the agriculture field. ISNU instructors taught these classes.

Social Science Classes Conducted Surveys

Donna Kirby and Marcia Curby interview Paul McGinnes for a sociology survey.

Nancy McCannon backs YCCI with poster.

During the past year, eager members of social science classes roamed the halls with questionnaires.

Surveys were conducted by various classes on tendencies of prejudice, liberals and conservatives, and evaluation of U-High's preparation for college and jobs.

New in the department was Mr. Redman, who replaced Miss Eikenberry second semester when she went on leave.

Another new faculty member, Mr. Livers, taught the psychology class as well as serving as the school guidance counselor.

Speech, Art Students Cultivated Talent, Technique

Janis Rine presents pantomime in dramatics.

Roger Alewell creates a masterpiece in art.

Becky Laubaugh reads prose in speech class.

Art students represented U-High early in the second semester with ink drawings displayed in the First National Bank of Normal. Impressions of a barn scene which had been created in the art room were done under the supervision of Mr. Ruud, U-High's new art instructor.

After a semester's study of the clues and secrets of proper acting and reading of many plays, students of dramatics were required to review and practice what they had learned in either a play cutting or a term paper. Normal Community students interested in the theatre were able to profit by U-High's wide curriculum by enrolling in this class.

Epidemics of stomach butterflies and clammy hands attacked speech students the last few days of both semesters as they prepared and gave their final speeches. As in previous years, dress clothes were required for the occasion.

BAND - Robert Whited, director

Band, Orchestra Had Year with Few Changes

Participating in the Homecoming Parade and the United Fund Drive, the marching band began another active season.

Exhibiting their school spirit, the pep band played at most of the home games.

The orchestra presented numbers for the Christmas and spring concerts.

Both band and orchestra were represented at district and state music contests.

New choir, new director, and new robes brightened U-High choruses this year.

Twenty-five students selected by try-out formed the new choir, which practiced three times a week during the noon hour.

Mr. Farlee became girls' glee club director. Dr. Ferrell led the mixed groups.

Nearly doubling last year's size, ninety chorus members aired religious music.

Seniors Gleaned Highest Honors in Parade

SNAPPY U-High band keeps beat for parade.

“Something old and something new in Sixty-two” could well have been the theme for this year’s Homecoming activities. The Mixed Chorus broke all ties of tradition by creating a Queen’s float to replace the convertibles used in previous years. Queen Carol Stubblefield and her court adorned the tiered float of orchid and white, with palms adding a touch of the exotic. By some miraculous quirk, homerooms also completed their parade entries, though there were only three weeks between the school year’s beginning and Homecoming.

DEE SMITH and Karen Hotchkiss beg soap from Jim White on second place float.

HOMEcomings court applauds the monarchs reigning over the Saturday night dance.

Chorus Added Innovation with Queen's Float

Ingenious Seniors of Homerooms 7 and 8 invented a kitten-producing machine for their first prize float, "We'll Shrink the Panthers." Second place went to senior Homerooms 9 and 11, third to freshman Homeroom 26, and fourth to junior Homerooms 1 and 4.

Washington's Panthers dampened some of Homecoming's high spirits with a 20-0 blow in Friday night's football game.

Journeying back to the "good old days," U-High's knights and fair damsels crossed over a drawbridge into the Union Ballroom for Saturday night's Homecoming dance, "Knights of the Round Table." Al Pizzamiglio and his band were the court musicians. Flags, green and gold shields, a moat, and U-High's own reigning monarchs all contributed to the medieval atmosphere.

Entering through a door of silver cord and angel hair adornment, U-High students lost their worries of semester exams in Fantasy in Frost, the sophomores' Winter Formal production. Musicians cheering the bleak, wintry evening were the George Southgate Quintet which was selected by the entertainment committee headed by Linda Lyman. Other chairmen were Sarah Walker, invitations; Tom Honn, tickets; Alison Miller, refreshments; Charles Clem, publicity; and John Bone, decorations.

Honor Society Mixed Fun, Serious Purpose

National Honor Society inducted nine seniors this year. Following their election based on student vote, faculty poll, and grades, Janet Adams, Sherry Butt, Steve Johnson, Nancy McCannon, Janet Prosser, Ted Sands, Ron Silverstein, Dee Smith, and Denny Steele went through pledge-week tortures such as preparing lunch for the sponsor, Mr. Gray, and the actives. At formal initiation, activities took a serious turn when pledges read and discussed their own themes on topics such as "Freedom."

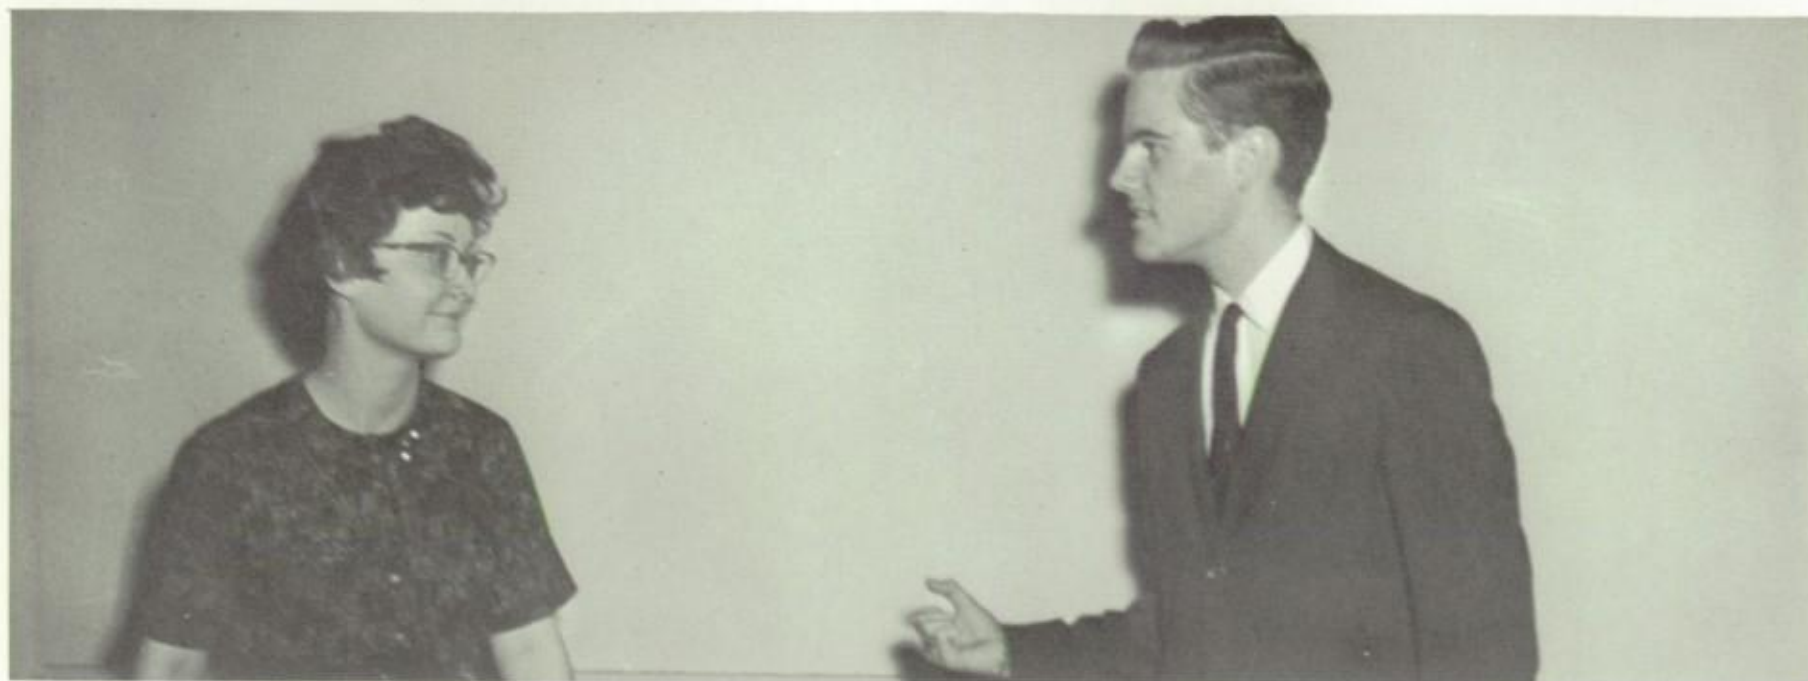

In the spring, juniors tapped were ChiChi Childers, Sue Dunn, Jackie Griffith, Marge Schroeder, and Bill Soper.

Include a U High English teacher who likes to write, and throw in a pinch of comedy for good measure. The result is the world premiere of The Unsuspected, written by Mr. Robert Brome and staged this year by the Junior Class. Paul McGinnes and Susan Pilant starred in the suspenseful mystery as Luther Grandison and his ward, Tyl. Others in the cast were Roger Marlow, Kay Brown, Diana Mann, Bob Winner, Marge Schroeder, Steve Van Vleck, Pat Newman, Janet Porter, and DeWayne Gilmore.

Dave Templeton challenges the two strangers as Dave Hand looks on in "The Staring Match."

Seniors Went Modern with Arena Style Play

"Easily compared to OUR TOWN." "By far the finest class presentation that I have seen in years!" "A stimulating evening!" These are only a few of the remarks heard after the senior class play, "The Staring Match" by Jerry McNeeley.

In keeping with the U-High tradition of Steve Bloomfield poses convincingly.

Seniors contributing their acting ability to the show were Dave Templeton, Chandler Parkay, Frank Esch, Jim White, Ron Merritt, Bernadine Meeker, Janis Rine, Rich Cicciu, Mark Brown, Steve Bloomfield, Craig King, Bill Sweet, Ron Silverstein, Mary Fern Olson, Dave Hand, Jim Collie, Linda Cary, Dee Smith, Dee Bunting, and Charlene Peithman.

Lively, lilting, and lovable were the boasts made on the publicity posters advertising U-High's musical this year; and lively, lilting, and lovable it was. "Finian's Rainbow" proved to be one of the outstanding productions in U-High history.

Directed by Mr. Beck and Dr. Ferrell, the performance was given on the evenings of May 23 and 24.

Leads Alice Bliss, Dave Hand, and Steve Bloomfield were supported by Barry Partrum, Dixie Smith, and several minor characters. An especially chosen chorus acted as the musical crowd backing the actors.

Assemblies Boosted Fund Drives, Campaigns

Honor Society pledges get "pinned."

Money-making champs mount Capen's steps.

The Queen of Hearts rules in election skit.

To urge, to support tradition, and to inform were the main purposes of assemblies.

Piquing class competition, assemblies kicked off the United Fund Drive and the Foreign Student Drive with provoking harangues from the four class presidents. As in previous years, assemblies sparked primary and final campaigns in the race for Student Council offices. The new officers-elect were presented at a short assembly following the elections.

Inducting new members, the Honor Society held its two annual assemblies with usual solemnity. Also in accordance with U. High custom was the Seniors' assembly which was followed by the Junior Ring Ceremony. Occasional pep assemblies came during the various sports seasons. Climaxing the run of traditional programs was Awards Day.

To inform and stimulate, Dr. Walter Kohn of ISNU talked to the student body on the importance of the United Nations on the international body's birthday, which fell ironically at the peak of the Cuban crisis.

Mr. Butt lauds senior members on Corn Belt championship track team.

Back from the 'Roaring Twenties,' Denny Steele sets out ginger ale as bartender at the Bowery Boys' Brawl.

Ingenious All-school Parties Furnished Fun

Furnishing fun and frolic for students were the plentiful all-school parties held this year. Post-game affairs were numerous and, by luck, always after successes on the playing field. Organization sponsored parties ranged from the chorus' semi-formal Christmas dance in the Union to the Business Club-FHA party which presented a President Kennedy skit to the U Club's Bowery Boys' Brawl. Staged by Student Council were the TWIRF Week dance to which girls asked boys, and the AFS Drive party.

Judy Burroughs and Ron Lemme rock it out.

Engrossed in conversation, seniors relax under a blossoming bough.

Fruit of a year's labors was the Junior-Senior Banquet and From, "Moonlit Manor." For the evening, the Union ballroom was transformed into a palatial Southern plantation. Blossoming trees and lacy white iron furniture surrounded the dance floor.

Featured at the banquet were a girls' vocal sextet and the guest speaker, Justice Robert Underwood. Following the dancing to the music of Dick Smith, bowling, a hay ride, and a barn dance furnished the early morning entertainment.

Three Special Honors Highlighted Awards Day

Coach Butt was given a trophy by the track team, a biology award was initiated, and Most Valuable Players were recognized for the first time--these made the 1963 Awards Day something special.

The citizenship awards went to just two people this year. Carol Stubblefield was named American Legion and DAR winner, and Jeff Neal took the Legion and SAR honors, as well as the David Gipson Award.

Claire Martens won the Williams Cup for excellence in junior writing, while Craig King, Frank Allen Philpot, Janet Frosser, Dee Smith, Dave Templeton, Sue Underwood, Jean Vandervoort, and Jim White were named by Quill & Scroll for publications work.

Jill Hurless and Dave Hand try sliding.

Partially cloudy skies and cool weather did not stop the seniors from having the time of their lives on their senior skip day. After traveling by bus to the Lake of the Woods, the members of the Class of '63 spent most of the day swimming, golfing, sea-sliding, boating, playing softball, or picnicking. Evening found the seniors returning home with weary, sunburned, but smiling faces.

U-High bathing beauties (?) squint angrily at the sun.

... Mark End of High School Fun for Seniors

Combining "West Side Story," "Brave New World," and "1984," the Class of '63 created their class night skit. Complete with musical dialog, the buffoonery depicted youth's battle against automation in the fight for human teachers. Featured was a rumble between the robot-teachers and students under the viaduct.

In addition to the skit, the other traditional Class Night happenings were performed. The valedictory and salutatory were given, the lamp of knowledge was passed on to next year's seniors, and the assembly was closed with the moving-up of classes and the school hymn.

Wishing to activate more interest in the student body, the Chess Club placed chess problems in the hall showcases. Playing chess, fittingly, was the club's main activity. Under the sponsorship of Mr. John Carlock served President Ron Silverstein and Gamesmaster Bill Sweet.

To better their collections, members of the Stamp and Coin Club bought, sold, and swapped stamps and coins. On occasion their collections were exhibited at U-High. Leading the philatelists were President Jim Eckert and Vice-president Steve Johnson. Mr. Fischer sponsored the club.

Membership in the Industrial Arts Club has both grown and become more active this year. Attending a leadership conference and taking a field trip to McKnight and McKnight were key activities. Officers were Clyde Coombs, president; Rich Scholer, vice-president; and Tom Miller, secretary.

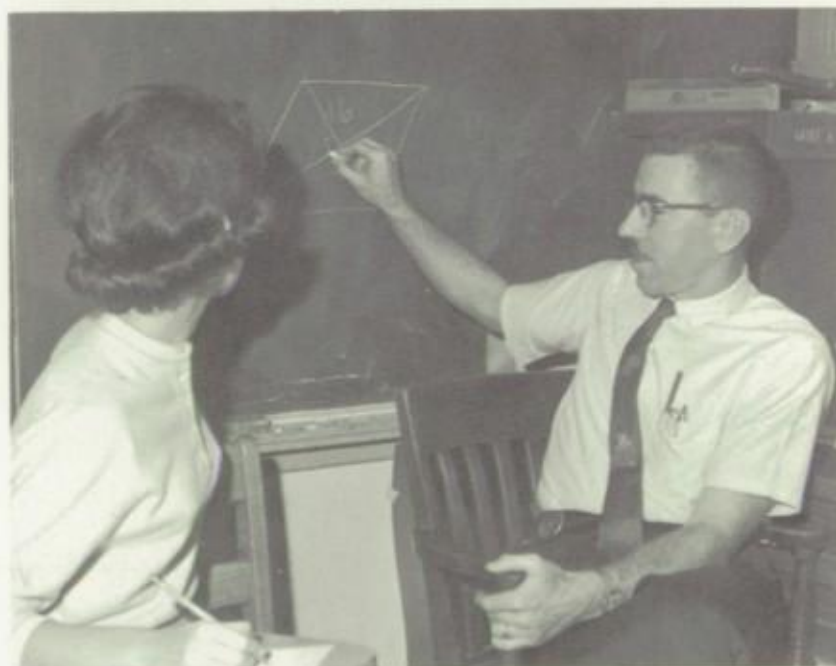

YCCI, Math Club Encouraged Academic Spirit

Timeliness is synonymous with the YCCI sponsored United Nations' Day Assembly, for it was held the day after the Cuban Crisis announcement made by President Kennedy. Other club activities included slides on Latin America, a look at local history, and participation in the Great Decisions programs and ticket sales. Officers were Eric Fruin, president; Jean Vandervoort, vice-president; Susan Underwood, secretary; and Nancy McCannon, treasurer.

Know how to divide easily? Ever heard of the base twelve or base two? Which way do you push this slide rule? These were some of the questions answered at Math Club meetings during the year. Stressing the nationwide math contest, the club also discussed past contest exams. In positions of leadership in the club were Ron Silverstein, president; Claire Martens, vice-president; and Nancy McCannon, secretary-treasurer. Sponsor is Mr. Lynn Brown.

Crowded Clarion Workroom Resembled Lounge

Passing by in the hall after school this year, one might have thought that the Journalism Room with its mob of kids was a second floor lounge. But, a second glance would tell that these scurriers were actually the Clarion staff rushing to meet a dead line. Co-copy Editors, Mary Mosimann and Susan Underwood, punched typewriters; while Production Editor Carol Stubblefield pasted the finished product. Although the dummy was done early in the year, Co-layout Editors, Dave Templeton and Dee Smith, willingly pitched in, Dee sharing the Co-photography editorship with Ginny Bach. Chief Photographer Craig King was either taking or developing pictures. Managing business, Jim White both sold ads and edited the ad section. Ready helpers and captains of the team were Sponsor Mr. Don Templeton and Editor Janet Prosser.

Clarionette Went to Press Every Three Weeks

Problems facing the Clarionette staff this year switched for scarcity of papers to scarcity of money. Going to press regularly, the Clarionette usually came out every three weeks. Surprises came when a paper was published the first day of school and when the Clarionette made the announcement of the Homecoming royalty.

Opportunity is the best word to describe University High School's Diversified Occupations class. It is a junior-senior program designed to train students in various jobs such as Cosmethology, Printing, Dental Assisting, and many others. On-the-job training is included as well as class studies. Mr. Robert E. Sharp, the instructor of D.O., says, "It's an unusual way to earn two credits, valuable training, and extra spending money while in school."

German, French Clubs Promoted Languages

For a beginning organization, the German Club boasted an exceptionally large membership and explored a great variety of areas at meetings. Of special interest were movies, records of German music, and an exchange student's speech. Promoters were President Dee Smith, Vice-president Ron Silverstein, and Secretary Sue Pilant.

Visiting French Club this year, one might have been very confused, for club members increased the amount of spoken French at the meetings. Student Council Initiated Chapter of A. F. S.

With Homecoming only three weeks away, this year's Student Council activities began on the first day of school. After a successful Homecoming, the Student Council plunged into the United Fund Drive. Sparked by class competition and a variety of revenue projects such as bake sales, car washes, and a three dollar club, U-High climbed to a record total of $521.

Following this achievement, the Student Council inaugurated the American Field Service program to bring a foreign student to U-High for the 1963-64 school year. The largest drive in the school's history was held in the spring to raise enough money to bring a student to U-High.

The Student Council kept the TWIRP Week tradition in full swing with such original firsts as Mr. Irresistible and Heart Throb

Thursday. The turn-about dance climaxing the week was highlighted with the girls making corsages, varying from balloons to vegetables, for the boys.

THE WASHINGTON Panther defense charges for Ron Wall, who finds plenty of running room.

Letters Awarded to 24 for 2-5-1 Grid Season

Although victory's sweet taste had eluded the Pioneers for nine previous games, the football team and its coach, Jack Butts, were treated to a sugar delight in the season's first game, when they blanked Monticello, 13-0. After four dark weeks without a Green and Gold victory, the team then pleased a rain soaked crowd by sloshing to a 6-6 tie with favored Pontiac. The Pioneers next blazed past Eureka, 13-6. In the season's final game, U-High's sharp defense held NCHS to a 14-0 victory.

The season's end found Ron Wall, leading ground gainer and Intercity team member, selected Most Valuable Player, and Rich Calhoon elected honorary captain. Sixteen Seniors awarded letters were Wall, Calhoon, Rich Cicciu, Clyde Coombs, Ed Cummings, Frank Esch, Jay Gillett, Jim Hodges, Mark Johnson, Myron Kiesewetter, Jeff Neal, Dave Riddle, Rich Scholer, Denny Steele, Jim Van Horn, and Terry Whitney.

Returning lettermen include Jon Beilstein, Rogers Freedlund, Fred Gehrt, Bob Hayden, Steve Lovelass, Tom Miller, Gary Walden, and Denny Whitworth.

If the performance of this last year's frosh-soph football team is any indication of what's to come in the future, happy days in football are here again for U-High. Finishing with an impressive 4-2 record, the Junior Pioneers, with victories over LeRoy, Clinton, Trinity, and Chatsworth, were even notable in their defeats.

Freshmen Mike Mogg and Ron McMahon, along with sophomore Fred Gehrt, played good ball for Coach Jimmy Scott.

Frosh-Soph Boasted 14-6 Season's Record

Finding the Frosh-Soph loop a little more difficult than last year's circuit, the Frosh-Soph still managed to carve out a 14-6 record. The Junior Pioneers raced to a 5-0 record before falling to Bloomington High. Minus the services of varsity sophomores, Bernie Lewis and Tom Taulbee, the Green and Gold, led by Steve Lovelass, Jerry Bacon, Bob Hayden, and Dave Greeness, went on to beat Trinity twice and Normal once. When these boys and the rest of the team move to the varsity, Taulbee and Lewis can expect a lot of help.

By compiling a 14-9 record, the cagers completed the first winning season in a major sport in some time. Fine teamwork produced an encouraging pre-Christmas season, climaxed by a thrilling win over Trinity.

In the Monticello Tourney, the offense, sparked by Ricky Wade and Jerry West, led the Pioneers to third place and the first athletic trophy in over a decade. A tip-in by Tom Taulbee gave the Pioneers their first win in Normal's gym. Although they lost several key contests, the third place Corn Belt slot and tie for second in the Intercity made the season a success.

The Green and Gold, a strong defensive team, landed more boys on the All-Intercity teams than any other school. Dan Zenor was named on the first team, Rich Cicciu and Bernie Lewis the second, and Jim Hodges honorable mention. Returning lettermen will be Lewis, Taulbee, West, and Zenor.

Freshman Team Averaged 60 Points per Game

For the second year in a row, U-High's Freshman basketball team recorded a banner season. Although the 12-3 record set by last year's team seemed almost unsurpassable, the boys of '66 succeeded in romping to a tremendous 15-2 season. After a fine opening contest, the Pioneers were tripped at Bloomington by a mere two points. After this loss, they proceeded to take the next ten in a row, including a 62-23 decision from Bloomington. Freshmen sported an average of 60 points a game. Standouts Ron Goben, Eric Larson, Mike Mogg, Jim Hodge, Ken Philpot, Ron Zenor, and Doug Mitchell will move up to the Frosh-Soph level for next year's season.

Wrestlers Ranked Third in Corn Belt Meet

While the Pioneers' basketball team was making headlines this year, another lesser known but not less agile squad was flattering U-High's athletic status. With a 6-7 won-loss record, including two victories over arch-rival Normal Community, the wrestling Pioneers placed third in the Corn Belt meet and fourth in the district.

Two seniors, Jay Gillett and Donn Bey, evinced exceptionally impressive records for this season. Jay sported an 18-1 vestige, 10 of them pins, and Donn showed a 12-3 spoor. Both fellows placed first in the Corn Belt meet, and Jay took first in the district match.

Championship in the Corn Belt Conference climaxed U-High's track season this year. Boasting the most successful track season that U-High has ever had, these cindermen were credited in addition to the CBC title third place in the Intercity meet. They also showed a 6-1 dual meet record plus a third place finish in Class B in the Normal Relays. Also flagging their achievement was recognition of nine performances on the Pantagraph Track Honor Roll. Jim Hodges, the team's top discus throwing representative, qualified for State competition.

SENIORS skip--rope, that is.

Putting final touches on their blueprints for the future, the members of the Class of '63 took the lead in many of U-High's activities this year. In the Homecoming float competition, the upperclassmen seized first and second places. To cook up a victory in the United Fund contest, Senior girls held bake sales; while the boys initiated The Three Dollar Club. A record $202 was raked in. Proving their strength is not just in competition, but in the classroom too, the hopeful graduates were on top of the semester honor roll, with 29 students achieving recognition. For four years, the Seniors have been developing their plans for adult life. A firm foundation has been laid for them to build on.

Juniors Kept Jumping in Concession Business

Burnt popcorn, melted candy bars, and frozen milk are some of the hurdles the Class of '64 had to leap this year while in the concession business. Penny-pinching Juniors all pitched in at noon hour sales in the lounge and at their stand at home football and basketball games. Their goal, of course, is the same as all junior classes' at U-High, to raise the most money possible to put on the best prom ever.

While still playing the part of busy bees, the Juniors showed uniqueness by staging the premiere of The Unsuspected for their class play. The drama's success added still more to the class kitty.

Sophomores Added Zest to U-High Activities

Versatile is a word almost synonymous with the Class of '65.

"Fantasy in Frost," this year's sophomores' presentation of the annual winter formal proved to be most delightful. For the first time, professional photography service was provided for the couples at the 'twixt semester dance.

In athletics, the sophomores strengthened the varsity teams, particularly in basketball with two playing regularly.

Further strength of the class was shown in the annual United Fund drive. One hundred twenty-eight dollars brought the class a third place in the intramural contest.

Freshmen Splurged for Second Place in Drive

One hundred fifty frosh joined U-High's family this year. In addition to conjugating verbs and evaluating 'X,' the Class of '66 showed its eagerness to be a part of the school by raising $144 for the United Fund, ranking second in class competition.

More Power to You!

New families, new homes, new industries can't wait for new electric generating and distribution capacity to be made ready for them. It has to be there! And it is, due to constant long-range planning aimed at having plenty of electric power on the line when it's needed.

Today, Illinois Power has a capability of over one million kilowatts, and is building a new unit in southern Illinois with a 385,000-kilowatt capability. To back this up the Company is a member of the Illinois-Missouri Power Pool, made up of utilities that share reserve energy during emergencies or maintenance shut-downs. The "Ill-Mo" Pool is part of a system which joins more than 100 electric utilities in 32 states.

Editor Thanks Helpers in Farewell Note

The job of editor of the 1963 Clarion was offered to me last May. When I accepted this position, I never expected to learn so much through this experience. Neither did I realize the work I had before me. Now that my staff and I have completed "Blueprints for the Future," we have all experienced a sense of accomplishment as we offer you the 1963 Clarion. To Mr. Nelson Smith of the ISNU Photo Service, to Mr. Joe Gardner of the American Yearbook Company, to Camera Craft Studio, and to my editors, I would like to extend my appreciation for the time they have devoted to this book. To Mr. Templeton, our adviser, I want to say a special thank you. Thank you, Mr. T, for all your patience and understanding. To you, the readers, I present this book, the story of the 1962-1963 school year.

Janet S. Prosser
